Japanese Voting Against Military Leaders Saturday

Not a Government Man Elected in First Four Towns Reporting

MAY IGNORE VOTE

Cabinet Likely to Disregard People's Vote, Dooming Parties

TOKIO, Japan.—(AP)—Early election returns from four large voting centers Saturday indicated sweeping victories for Minseitō and Seiyūkai parties opposed to the government. Not a single government candidate for the House of Representatives was elected in the towns of Fukushima, Wakamatsu, Kaitani and Matsue.

The Japanese Home Office announced a total of 565 election violations involving 903 persons of which 68 were charged with bribery.

Cabinet Is Defiant
The cabinet has announced it intends to hold on to the power, regardless of an expected adverse vote against its policies. Premier Senjuro Hayashi was charged with favoring army domination of government in the political fight which preceded dissolution of the last Parliament March 31. The two principal parties, Seiyūkai and Minseitō, were embittered by dissolution of the last Diet and united in the fight against Hayashi.

More than half the voters stayed away from the polls Saturday in some districts, notably in Hokkaido. At Kobe it was estimated 39 per cent of the electors refrained from casting ballots. In other districts the percentage ranged up to 52 per cent at CONWAY, Ark.—(AP)—Hope and DeQueen renewed their petition for reinstatement in the Arkansas Athletic Association at the meeting of the executive committee here Saturday morning, and the committee recessed at noon for further consideration at the afternoon session which begins at 1 o'clock.

The cases of Hope, DeQueen and Prescott are before the committee, although delegations appeared for only the first two.

Representing Hope were Superintendent Beryl Henry, Coach Foy Hammons and Principal Jimmy Jones. For DeQueen the following appeared: Dr. C. C. Thompson, president of the school board; Ray Kimball, board member; Principal G. P. Balding; and Coaches Oliver Criswell and Al Harris.

Both Hope and DeQueen pledged the committee that if reinstated their athletic affairs would be concentrated exclusively in the hands of school authorities, without outside interference.

MIND Your MANNERS

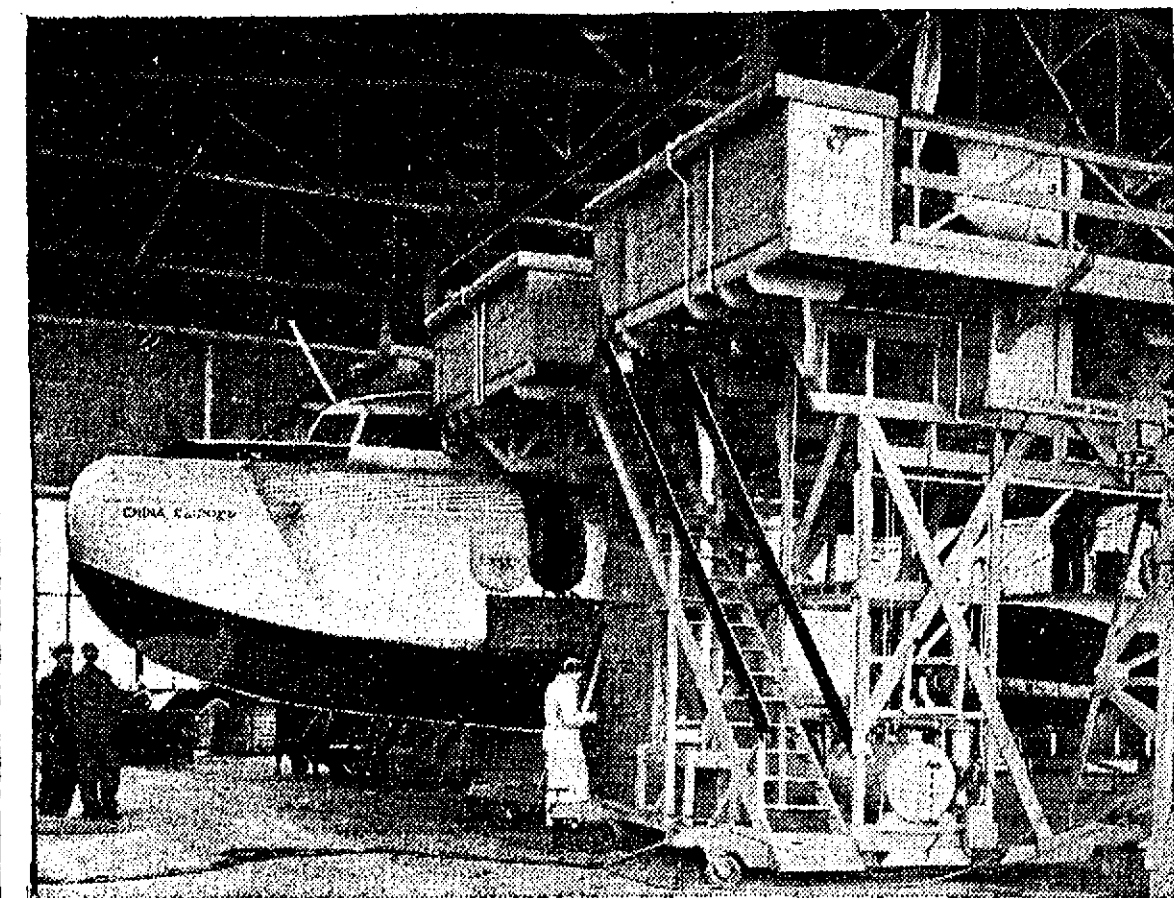

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a woman who is seated at a restaurant table rise when another woman who is passing stops to speak to her?
2. What is the usual amount of a tip in a restaurant?
3. Should the tip be larger at a table with a cloth on it than at a bare-topped table?
4. Is it permissible to use a tooth pick in public?
5. Is curling one's feet around the legs of the chair a correct way to sit?

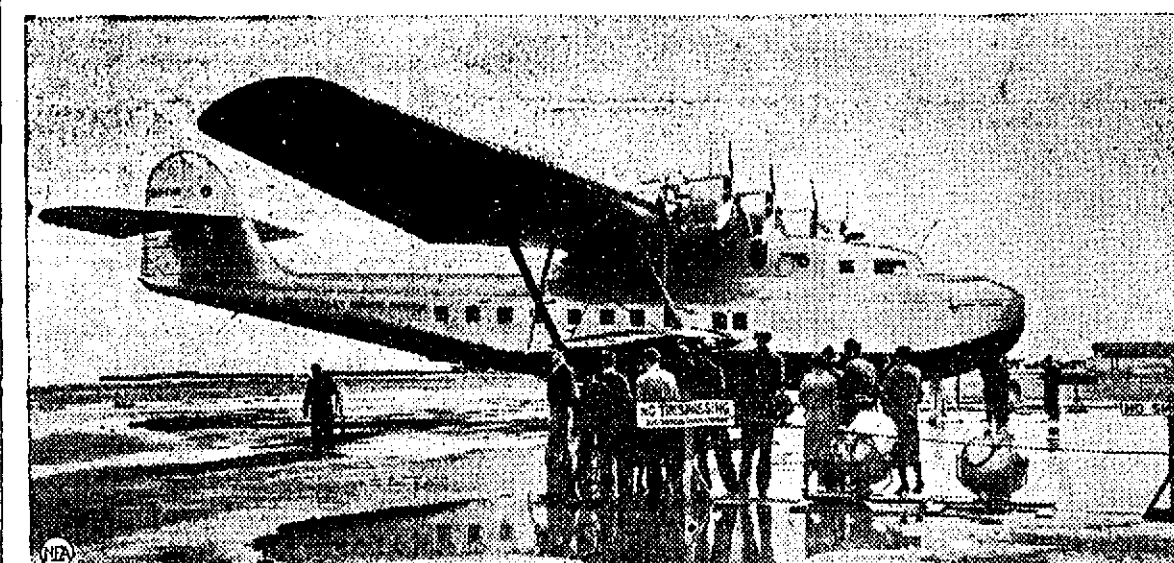

What would you do if—
You were having a "Dutch treat" lunch with two or three friends in a room and it came time to pay the bill—
(a) Ask for separate checks?
(b) Have one person pay the whole bill and settle with him later?
(c) Have each person contribute his share before paying the waiter.

Answers
1. Not unless she is very young and the one who is passing is much older.
2. Ten per cent of the bill. Larger if the bill is very small.
3. Yes.
4. No.
5. No. Neither is it graceful! Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(b) or (c). Avoid discussion of the bill at table.

Air Conquest of Pacific Spurs U. S. to Increase Trade in Australian Market

Hogged in with stilts, the China Clipper is seen above in the Pan-American base at Alameda as mechanics tuned it up from different levels of the mobile workshop. Motors are reached from the stilted gallery, 21 feet high.

After inspection and overhaul, the plane is taken from the hangar at Alameda, and run outside, above, for compass tests. Then the big ship is ready for strenuous trans-Pacific flying.

100 Crossings by Clippers Set Pace for Future Traffic

Million Miles Flown, 350,000 Pounds Express, Without Accident

THROUGH TO CHINA

Pan-American's Pacific Voyages New Chapter in Man's Conquest

SAN FRANCISCO.—(NEA)—So recent and so new is the air conquest of the Pacific that few Americans realize the meaning of the wonders that have been accomplished since Pan-American Airways launched its Pacific adventure two years ago.

More than 100 scheduled Pacific crossings have been made successfully and without a fatality or serious hitch or accident of any kind. Nearly a million miles have been flown above the vast Pacific, and more than 350,000 pounds of express matter, exclusive of mail, have been delivered. Among the passengers carried have been 100 women and children.

Mail and express now is going through to China on schedule. Run at Loss
The line from Hawaii to New Zealand will be functioning soon. As the terminus at Auckland, N. Z., connects with British lines to Australia, the great countries "down under" will be within four days of the United States, and China within six.

That puts American exporters in a position to reach the rich China and Australia-New Zealand markets faster than they can be reached from Europe by any existing air line.

Operation of the Pacific lines has been at a loss thus far, as expected. Only six passengers are carried on the long hop from Alameda to Honolulu, and 12 from Honolulu to Manila. New Clipper ships, now on the Boeing factory production line at Seattle, will carry 72 passengers and a crew of eight, together with 5000 pounds of mail, express and baggage. That may well bring revenues up to the pay point.

"Radio Menus"
The planes themselves and the hotels that have been set up on the tiny island "way stations" of the Pacific offer such luxuries that at least one pioneer used the Pacific line for sheer pleasure. He spent a week's vacation on Wake Island.

Much has already been heard of the development of Midway, Wake and Guam islands, "stops" of the line to the Philippines, and already they have been developed to a point of comfort where the traveler is assured variety in the meals at each hotel. To avoid monotony, they notify each other by radio what each is serving. But the "way points" on the road to New Zealand are newer. Kingman Reef, Howland, Baker and Jarvis Islands, and the Pago Pago are all coming into a future no one dreamed for them a few years ago. Kingman Reef is so small that for many years the U. S. Department refused to recognize its existence, so small that passengers may have to be housed in a floating hotel moored in the lagoon rather than on the island itself.

Aid to U. S. Trade
Only a few weeks ago the first exploratory flight was made over the New Zealand route, which has never before been the wings of man. Yet so perfect were the preparations and calculations for the exploratory flight, that the veteran pilots set their great planes down in the lagoons of the islands in succession, waters never before even sighted from a plane, and arrived in Auckland on schedule.

The opening up of this Australasian territory to mail, passenger and express travel is highly important to American trade. Heavy machinery, of course, cannot be sent that way. But businessmen can, and the possibility of quick transport of repair parts and even expert repairmen is an important talking-point for any salesman. Now America can offer better service to these countries than Europe.

Emergency Service
Actual freight transport may not be so far away. Not long ago, one of the Clippers in the South American service rushed a heavy seven-foot crankshaft to a mine in Colombia, preventing what might have been a layup of weeks had air service not been available. What this kind of communication means is well illustrated by this recent incident:

A physician in Venezuela had a puzzling case. He sent a bit of live tissue by air express to a great New York medical laboratory. Within 15 hours the radio had carried their report back to him, enabling him to diagnose the

Donation of Used Textbooks by Parents Is School Request

Although the State of Arkansas has appropriated approximately $600,000 to enforce the Free Textbook Act this amount is approximately 30 per cent short of providing for all children in the first eight grades of school.

School officials throughout southwest Arkansas urgently request all parents who can do so to donate used textbooks to their local school immediately. At least 30 per cent of the texts in the first eight grades must be obtained privately to supplement the state-purchased books—and these private donations are being taken now at every school.

Report your donation to school officials or P. T. A. leaders immediately.

Glenn Burns and 7 Others Are Seized in Liquor Roundup

Burns Is to Face Arraignment Under Federal Liquor Tax Laws

PROBE OF SIXTY DAYS

Federal, State and County Men Complete Sweep in Hempstead

Sheriff Jim Bearden announced the arrest Saturday of Glenn Burns, described by the sheriff as the "king of southwest Arkansas bootlegging," and seven other men, three white and four negroes. All are held for violation of the liquor laws.

Those held besides Burns are: John Beavers, Tommy Burns, Cleo Powell, white; and Brooks Morrison, Arthur Witherspoon, Clitia Chestham and McKinley Jefferson, negroes. Tommy Burns and Cleo Powell are nephews of Glenn Burns.

The sheriff said Burns would face federal charges. He was to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Phillips at Texarkana Saturday on charges of being a wholesale and retail liquor dealer without having paid government tax.

The offense is a felony under the federal statutes. The seven other prisoners, all held in the Washington jail, will be arraigned in Hope municipal court Monday on charges of selling untaxed liquor.

In the event they do not enter pleas of guilty here, their cases will be submitted before a federal grand jury which convenes at Fort Smith in June, the sheriff said.

Secret Investigation

The arrest of the eight men resulted from a secret investigation of more than 60 days with the State Revenue Department and the Arkansas State Police.

Active in the investigation were Deputy Sheriffs Reginald Bearden and William Robins of Hempstead county, E. B. Ford, supervisor of secret investigation of the State Department of Revenues, and others.

In commenting on the arrests, the sheriff said the apprehension of Burns was difficult because he managed the business and was not active in the manufacture and transportation of the illicit liquor.

Burns was arrested here last year and was fined $250 in Hope municipal court on charges of violating liquor laws.

House Is Padlocked

Sheriff Bearden said Saturday the home of Brice Lee, negro, of Washington, was padlocked Friday under a circuit court order for being a nuisance. Lee has been convicted twice for selling illegal liquor at his home.

The sheriff said the order would be made permanent in the July circuit court and the house and its contents would be ordered sold.

Conway Crash Is Fatal for Youth

Another Boy Seriously Injured When Their Car Leaves Highway

CONWAY, Ark.—(AP)—Clinton Mahan, 17, of Bee Branch, Van Buren county, was killed when his car left the highway and was wrecked 30 miles north of Conway Friday night.

Leon Jones, 19, also of Bee Branch, was injured critically; and Clayton Lee, of Damascus, was less seriously hurt.

The women whose heroism resulted in their deaths were Miss Gwendolyn I. Garvin, 25, of Augusta, Ga., and Miss Edna Margaret, 43, of Pittsburgh, Miss Garvin, whose health was impaired, drowned while making a futile attempt to rescue a girl from a similar fate at Granitesville, S. C., in 1936.

Miss Joyce, a patient in an institution at Rochester, Pa., was burned to death with another patient she attempted to rescue from a burning cottage in 1936. Miss Joyce had led five other patients from the flaming cottage.

A crossbred sow owned by James L. J. J., farmer living near Antioch, Ind., farrowed 26 pigs, 23 of which survived.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

LONGVIEW, Texas.—With almost 3,000 people killed in traffic in this country so far this year, it begins to look like what's left of us will either have to stay home or sober, either of which will be hard to do if the saloon man makes a living and the landlord gets his rent money. However, it appears the automobile fixer and the undertaker's got to be considered in almost any decision we make.

So many newspapers have turned against Mr. Roosevelt on his Supreme Court business here lately it appears the President might win, after all.

Hitler Renews His Catholicism Fight

Threatens to Revoke Clerical Licenses to Any of "Opposition"

BERLIN, Germany.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler threatened Saturday to "withdraw a clergyman's license" from any who try to "disrupt our community spirit." Life and the Weaver

Life is a woven fabric. The pattern and web are wrought by the dark threads and the golden threads that loom are shot. You cannot judge God's purpose by the thrust of a single thread. What to you may be dark, mysterious, may be gloriously bright instead. For He holds in His mind a pattern as fair as His love is strong. Which grows each day in the weaving. Our tangled and broken efforts. To walk in His kind commands. Will give life an added luster. Restored by His loving hands. So trust in the Weaver's wisdom. In His love and unflinching care. And the fabric of life, completed. Some day will be wondrous fair. —Selected.

new comfort in her friendship. Perhaps it would be better to have a friend who shared the secret. Even when her mother was alive, the problem had been easier to face because there were two of them.

After a moment, she said: "I won't run away, Dorothy. Not while there's a chance of Bob never finding it out..."

"He won't. Don't worry. And I'll manage sweet Sybil."

Dorothy jumped from the bed and pulled Joan to her feet after her.

"Let's forget it!" she cried. "Here I felt so happy at finding an old friend in the wilderness, and it turned out that I was an Avenging Angel. Believe me, I was scared to death when I saw those bags of yours all packed. Come, let me help you unpack right now. Then we'll go out and celebrate. I'm starving, aren't you?"

"I hadn't thought of it," Joan smiled.

"I hope I wasn't expected to get through the evening on Sybil Hendry's puny hors d'oeuvres." She held up a black velvet dress, admiringly, found a hanger for it. "We'll have fun together, Joan. Just like we did in school. Remember old Dribble-Puss with the warlike mustache—the one who tried so hard to teach us geometry? And Senor Ricardo, who recited love poems in Spanish?"

JOAN smiled reminiscently. "How long are you going to stay in the east, Dorothy?" she asked, replacing lingerie in the bureau drawers.

"Two or three months, anyway. Mother and Dad are in Honolulu for the winter, and I'm here for the noble purpose of completing an art course. Maybe I can find a job when I finish. Who knows?"

She spun around suddenly, as a new idea occurred to her.

"Say, Joan, why don't you come out and stay there with me while the family's away?"

"At the Downs?"

"Of course."

Joan hesitated. "I'd feel as if I were intruding..."

"Nonsense. Aunt Margaret would love it. She's been worried about leaving me there all alone, and just as worried about packing me off to a hotel. If you would stay at the house with me, it would solve everything."

"It would be fun," Joan admitted.

"Then it's settled. I'll have Aunt Margaret send you a formal invitation tomorrow..." Why in the world didn't I think of that before we unpacked everything again?"

AFTER a minute or two, Joan's telephone ceased to ring. She breathed easier in the silence that filled the room. There was still much to do. Plans to make.

Bob's photograph stood on the bureau. She took it up tenderly, curiously, and as she looked into the clear, smiling gray eyes, her own filled with tears. Tonight she was cutting the last tie that bound them. In the morning she would be out of his life forever. Forever. There could be no dream of meeting him again. Not even, no matter how many long years dragged into the future.

The same old Fate which had taken her father from her mother was forcing Bob out of her life now. She, too, must tread life's path alone, her heart slowly withering within her breast. Like her mother, she too, would reap her final reward in a lonely room, deserted and forgotten.

"Goodbye, Bob," she whispered. "Goodbye, my dearest..."

She leaned against the wall, the picture clutched to her heart, and tears streamed down her cheeks.

IT was a knock on her door, sharp and imperative, which recalled her to the present. First the phone, now the door...

"Who could it be?"

"Joan!" A voice called brightly. "Joan Barrett!"

Joan opened the door. Dorothy Starke came into her room.

"Joan! You didn't answer the phone, but the room-clerk saw you come in... Joan, what's the trouble?"

Dorothy looked around the room, at the two bags ready for flight, into the empty closet beyond.

"Joan—you weren't going—"

Slowly Joan sank down on the bed, and when she spoke, her voice was hollow. "They didn't know about me, Dorothy. I couldn't ever face them now..."

Dorothy sat down beside her and put an arm about her shoulders. "Joan," she said sincerely, "you don't think I'd tell them, do you? Oh, my dear,

Martha Jane Eason is program leader for the Junior Endeavor group, which meets at the bungalow at 5:30 Sunday afternoon. Georgia Dodds leads the Senior Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m.

The monthly meeting of the church board will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. It is important that every member be present. Plans will be completed for the annual "Every Member Canvass" to be completed during "Loyalty Week," May 9-15.

We are planning for a great day next Sunday, May 9, "Mother's Day" will be observed in this church as "Family Day." Special plans have been made to make the day a memorial one in the history of the church. You should plan to attend with your whole family.

Looking ahead to "Loyalty Week," May 9-15, and our Every Member Canvass, the pastor will speak Sunday morning on the subject, "The Sin of Ananias and Sapphira." The sermon will deal with Christian liberty. In stressing the restoration of primitive Christianity, this one essential element has been neglected. We have overlooked preaching liberty as one essential fruit of the Christian spirit, and our neglect has brought failure to many Christian congregations.

The evening sermon, in the service beginning at 7:45, is on "Peter's Fall and Recovery." All the world loves Peter, but there is no denying that he was a great blunderer. His faults, however, were such as lead to virtue's side. He really did believe in Christ, and he was in the main, loyal to Him, and proved that He loved Him. By the story of Peter's fall and recovery we are encouraged to believe that one may be a poor Christian and yet be saved. I would rather be the weakest and most stumbling Christian in the church than to be the strongest and most self-confident unbeliever in the whole world. For I am sure heaven is full of men and women who were once poor Christians, and I am equally sure that there are no unbelievers there at all.

You will be welcome at every service here this Sunday and every Sunday. Come and worship with us.

"Well, if it isn't Peggy Fairbanks!" exclaimed an old neighbor, meeting the child at the movies.

"No, it's Peggy Brown," the little one corrected. "Mother and me got married again."

OAT TLEO THEATERS

At the Saenger-Rialto
Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy add to the laurels they won in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie." In "Maytime" based on the unforgettable Broadway play by Rida Johnson Young, and which comes Sunday to the Saenger and on account of its length, shows only twice daily.

Their song together, "Will You Remember?" from the stage play, is unforgettable. Miss MacDonald also sings two complete operatic arias and parts of others. Eddy sings three excellent novelty songs, "Students' Drinking Song," "Vive L'Opera" and "Virginia Ham and Eggs." Together, they give a beautiful rendition of the folksong, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

"Maytime" is an auspicious beginning for the new year. It sets a spectacular pace for Hollywood to follow in the months to come.

George Bancroft, in a role reminiscent of his memorable portrayals in "Underworld," "Dragnet" and "Docks of New York," heads the large cast appearing in "Racketeers in Exile," the new screen attraction opening Sunday at the Rialto Theater. Appearing opposite Bancroft is Wynne Gibson, his co-star in the famous "Lady and Gent" of several years back, and Evelyn Venable, last seen opposite Jack Holt in "North of Nome."

Naval Men Scorn Bombing of Ship
Espana Actually Obsolete, With Little Deck Armor, They Say
WASHINGTON—(P)—American naval officers went ahead Friday night with plans to build two $60,000,000 battleships, contending that the sinking of a Spanish warship by airplane bombs earlier in the day was no real test of modern sea fighters. They said the Espana, which Spanish government planes sent to the bottom, was a battleship in name only. It was 24 years old and had a tonnage of 15,452—far less than modern dreadnaughts. The Espana's deck, navy men said, was protected only by 1½-inch armor plate, since the vessel was built in 1913 before airplanes assumed a major role in warfare. Every American battleship, they said, is protected by at least three inches of armor plate on their decks, and much heavier armor below the water line and in other vulnerable spots.

Officers said also that the Espana matched in age, armament and armor protection the old second line battleship Michigan which was junked as obsolete in 1923. The smallest and poorest protected American battleship now is the Arkansas (26,100 tons) which is to be scrapped when battleship No. 55, on which bids are to be opened June 2, is completed.

THANKS
Having completed our drilling operations in Hempstead County, we expect in the next few days to close our Hope office.

We are deeply grateful for the courtesies that we have received at the hands of the many friends we have made at Hope. Our only regret is that we have been unable to locate some oil so that we might spend more time here.
